TYPE ONE

THE IMPROVER

If it wasn't for you, our world would be without your honest and practical perspective. You set the example of diligence and responsibility. You seek love and worth through being good and improving yourself and others.

Though you are self-reliant and dependable, you struggle with adapting and giving people the benefit of the doubt. All your hard work will pay off but don't forget to ask yourself "how good is good enough?" to avoid falling into perfectionism.

Become more flexible and learn to quiet your inner critic (even give them a name). Learn to live in the shades of grey to create empathy in your relationships.
